Mrs. Catherine Jones, Gettysburg R. 1, suffered multiple bruises of the back and chest this morning in one of four accidents investigated over the weekend by borough police.

In one of the crashes a boat hit a car on Steinwehr Ave.

Mrs. Jones was an occupant of a Little Taxi Cab driven by James E. Moore, F. Water St., at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Borough police said the taxi was on Baltimore St. when Charles Prout, Gettysburg R. 2, driving on Middle St., stopped for a red blinker and then pulled into Baltimore St., striking the left rear fender of the taxi. NEW MILK PRICES
BOOST ORDERED

The orders also called for a half-cent increase in the Harrisburg zone two area (Chambersburg-Shippensburg.)

(No information had been received locally by milk dealers on the order and the opinion was expressed that the order will not affect prices in the Gettysburg area, which is in a separate pricing area from York and Harrisburg territory.)

The order provides for a return to present retail prices in all areas except the Chambersburg - Shippensburg section of the Harrisburg market on April 1, in a return to seasonal pricing.

In that area the retail price will remain at 23 cents a quart after April 1 a half-cent higher than the present price.

JERSEY CRASH

ELIZABETH, N. J. (P)—Nine cars and two trucks piled up one after another in a patch of heavy fog on the New Jersey Turnpike today, hospitalizing four persons. State police said the 11-vehicle chain reaction smashup occurred about 7:30 a. m. when Edward Salzano, 26, of Jersey City, hit the fog bank and slowed down.

Then a truck rammed him from the rear, state police said, the truck swinging around and blocking both southbound lanes of the superhighway.

Then, one after another, the other cars and the second truck loomed up in the fog, their brakes squealing, and crashed into the mess. One truck careened off the road into marshland. The accident happened just inside the Elizabeth City line about two miles north of the Elizabeth interchange.

DODGERS TRY TO WIN SERIES; BILLY LOSES TO FACE VIC RASCHI

By GAYLE TALBOT
BROOKLYN (AP)—The official World Series program says on Page 25 that if Duke Snider gets hot "he can break this series wide open."

They can write that again. Yesterday, the Duke, along with Dodger outfielders Carl Furillo and Andy Pafko, hit a torrid pace in Brooklyn's 11-inning, 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees.

If the series isn't broken wide open, at least it's severely bent. Billy Loes goes today.

Now the Dodgers will try to clinch the world title in six games as the series moves back to Ebbets Field today. Brooklyn has won three games, the Yanks two.

Manager Charlie Dressen has tapped Billy Loes to try to wrap it up. He's told the youngster to rear back and fire the ball instead of trying to out-think the Yank batters as he did in a disastrous relief stint in the second game.

Vic Raschi will go to the mound for the American League champions.

Second-line Pitchers
The job the Dodgers did yesterday on a couple of second-line Bomber throwers, Ewell Blackwell and Johnny Sain, was a beauty.

Snider won it with his three timely blasts—home run, double, single—and Furillo and Pafko saved it for game Carl Erskine with two magnificent catches.

That was all Casey Stengel could talk about—Pafko and Furillo going up in the stands and practically mingling with the crowd in right field to rob his team of two home runs.

Magnificent Support
"You saw it," said the Yankee manager after the game. "There's nothing I need to tell you. That fellow (Erskine) doesn't get that kind of fielding behind him, we win it. Never saw two better catches anywhere. That fellow got better as he went along, but he didn't get that kind of fielding we beat him."

Which was absolutely true. Erskine didn't permit another Yank hit after Johnny Mize unloaded his three-run homer to put the Bombers out in front 5-4 in the fifth. In fact, he retired the last 19 Yank batters in succession, but he could have been badly bruised with anything less than the magnificent support he received.

Some thought that Pafko made the greater catch when he leaped to make a one-handed stab of Gene Woodling's long belt in the second inning. Others thought Furillo's robbery of Mize for the second out in the 11th won the prize.

Big Day For Duke
To a man, the Dodgers conceded that they were dying while Mize's 11th-inning blast sailed out there. They thought it was going in, sure. It was a bawling game in which so many things happened that it was difficult to get a very clear picture of it in retrospect. First there was Snider bringing the great crowd of 70,536 to its feet, and then Mize, only a few minutes later, rendering them virtually delirious with his mighty three-run slam into the chairs.

Again there was Snider tying it up at 5-5 with a line single in the seventh, and finally the Duke winning it with this double in the 11th.

Controversy Let Off
It would be easy to overlook Erskine's remarkable performance. The box score says that the Yankees made five hits, but you should have seen them. The first one, by Mickey Mantle to lead off the fourth, was a drag bunt. The next three, which put the Yanks back in business in the fifth, were mangle singles which dribbled through the Brook infield. The only one worthy of the name was Mize's homer. It alone was well and truly swatted.

After that, nothing. Although Joe Black had run all the way to the bullpen and started lathering up after the second Yank hit, Manager Chuck Dressen stuck with Erskine, and he was well rewarded. One play set off a controversy that still persisted today.

Picture Reverses Umpire
In the 10th, Sain knocked a hopper past the mound. Jackie Robinson nabbed it and pegged to Gil Hodges at first. Without much doubt, Sain was across the bag when the ball arrived. Umpire Art Passarella, after some hesitation, called Sain out. Coach Bill Dickey and other Yankees protested bitterly.

Afterwards, Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick looked at a picture taken by Associated Press photographer John Lindsay which showed Sain's foot on the bag and the ball not yet in Hodges' mitt.

"According to the picture," Frick said, "it looks like Passarella called a wrong play. If he did, he's only human. I assure you it's not the first wrong call ever made by an umpire, if it was that."

Vary your vegetable routine! Cook thinly sliced celery and coarsely shredded cabbage together and serve with butter or white sauce. Baked Hubbard squash, cut in half and filled with green peas also makes a delicious combination.

Bullets Rout Green Terrors 28-6 For Seventh Straight

After being held scoreless in the first period, the Gettysburg College football team scored twice in the second period and once each in the final two quarters to register an impressive 28-6 victory over Western Maryland here Saturday afternoon before approximately 3,500 fans.

The victory marked the seventh in a row for the Bullets, five of which were gained last year, and snapped a 13-game winning streak for the Terrors who had been unbeaten since losing to F. and M. in October of 1950.

The Bullets marched 67 yards on eight plays to score after 2:45 minutes of the second period. Earl Yost returned Stevenson's punt from the 20 to the 33 as the first period ended and from which spot Gettysburg started its touchdown drive.

Ujobai Scores
After a pass was incomplete, Walt Hemberger got three yards on an end-around play. Berkly Ward, who turned in some fine passing throughout, fired to Hemberger for a first down on the Gettysburg 49.

Yost smacked through right tackle for four yards and then Joe Ujobai went through the right side for a first down on the Terrors' 35. Bob Epplenman, another fine performer, shook off four would-be tacklers to drive for a first down on the 9. Ujobai got four yards at right end and then Yost plowed through center to score. Willis Pratt booted the first of his four extra points.

Midway in the same period Yost intercepted a Terror aerial on the

INTERNATIONAL WINS SERIES

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—The International League has won its first Little World Series in four years.

The Rochester Red Wings, trailing the Kansas City Blues at one point by three games to one, swept the last three games to beat the American Association playoff champs. Rochester took the final here Saturday night, 6-4.

All the last three were saved by the strength of Jack Crimian's right arm. He came on in the sixth Saturday after the Blues had scored their four. He snuffed out a rally, allowing two hits and no runs in the final 3-2-3 innings. Crimian pitched six consecutive innings of hitless relief ball in the fifth and sixth games. He appeared in six games of the seven-game series. Crimian struck out two and walked none in his final appearance.

It was Rochester's first Little World Series victory since 1931. The players' pool amounted to $46,641. The Red Wings won shares of $1,212 each. The Blues won $720 a man.

ONLY 35 MAJOR SCHOOLELEVENS, ARE UNBEATEN

By DICK HOENIG

HARRISBURG (AP)—Today's list of major schoolboy football teams unbeaten and untied at the one-third mark of the 1952 campaign appeared to be shorter than in many years.

Surprising results, more commonly called upsets, have dotted the week end reports from the first kickoff—and the fourth was no different.

Not many more than 35 major elevens, chiefly in the Pittsburgh area WPIAL and the huge East Penn conference, enter the second month of play still on the road to an undefeated and untied season. At least one conference—section II of the Northwest, can't boast a single representative on the list.

Short as it may be, six of 1951's 13 regular season all-winners teams are still on the list. A seventh, Ridley Twp., has been tied. Lewistown, defending central counties titlist, Bellwood-Antis, 1950 Western Conference champ, and Munhall of the Class AA ranks in the WPIAL, have won four each.

3 Have Clear Records
Swoyersville, Eastern Penn. defending champion, Philadelphia West Catholic and West Scranton of the East Penn have come out victorious in three games this year.

Central Pennsylvania, for the second straight week, claimed the questionable distinction of having the most favorites toppled. This time the entire slate of three games in the Central Penn conference went to the underdogs.

Penn scored its first Central Penn win in five years, taking the defending champion, Williamsport, 13-0. Reading, upset last week by Steelton, ran away from Harrisburg John Harris, 26-6. And Lebanon once again favored to win the title, lost its second conference decision, to Lancaster, 13-7.

In the South Penn conference it was much the same story with defending titlist Gettysburg losing to Hanover, 9-7, on a safety and touchdown in the last period. Hershe overtook Mechanicsburg, 7-0, in another eye-opener.

The only major Central Pennsylvania teams with unblemished records are York and William Penn of the Central Penn Conference and Hershey of the South Penn.

The Eastern Penn elite, northern division, besides West Scranton and Swoyersville, are Old Forge, Scranton Central, Wilkes-Barre Meyers and Dunmore. In the southern division its Minersville, Lansford and Nesquehoning.

Two of the big three eastern independents, Bethlehem and Easton, are on the list of those with spotless records.

The 53-member Western Conference has seven top teams in class A yet to be defeated or tied. Heading the pack are Lewistown and Bellwood-Antis, each with four 1952 wins. The others: Ebensburg, Hollidaysburg, Shade Twp., DuBois, and Lock Haven.

In the WPIAL Class AA section, just one third of the 36 entries are still in the running for Farrell's title. They are: Redstone and Munhall (both three wins), Alliquippa, Beaver Falls, Butler, Clairton, Farrell, Johnstown, Monessen, Turtle Creek, Washington and Wilkensburg.

Want to spice up your apple-sauce? A half teaspoon of cinnamon, a half teaspoon of nutmeg, and one-eighth teaspoon mace will be about right for two pounds of cooking apples. Add sugar to taste and don't forget to add a dash of salt to point up the flavor.

Sliced hard-cooked eggs mixed with cooked elbow macaroni and cheese sauce make a good luncheon or supper casserole. Sprinkle the top with buttered crumbs.

Mr. Dobbin was the oldest practitioner at the Bar of this County, having been admitted to practice in 1801. He sustained a high reputation for his classical learning and legal acquirements. Somewhat eccentric in his character, however, he was not enabled in his later years, to turn his varied knowledge to the valuable account it might have been by others not similarly affected.

Distressing Accident: On Saturday afternoon an interesting child of Mr. Joseph Barker, of Littlestown, was passing by a horse which was hitched near his dwelling, when the animal kicked the child in the pit of his stomach, causing so severe an injury, that it died Sunday between 11 and 12 o'clock.

Today's Talk

LIVE AND LET LIVE

All movements for the preservation of animals and birds get my endorsement. I like them in their free world. It always pains me to see any of them housed or put into cages. I would not kill any of them, not even the squirrels that eat my window sills!

I am always glad when the hunting season is over, and our beautiful deer, moose, and wild fowl can go about their lives without being butchered "for sport." This earth first belonged to them, and there is plenty of room still left for them to live in, without the fear of being shot. So wanton has been the desire to kill that many a beautiful bird and beast has now become extinct.

I can readily understand why it is that so many animals and birds fear man. They may have a language of their own that tells them to look out for the man killer. Few birds will light upon a man, except among the more domesticated ones. But they will light upon the back of a horse, or cow, and feel well at home. Man, they look upon as their enemy—rightly can they think that.

The late A. Edward Newton, a noted book lover and collector, once read Mary Webb's great novel "Gone to Earth," in which a girl's pet fox went to its death through the cruelty of a man. After he had read that book he stated that never again could he enter into fox hunting with hounds.

Lover of dogs as I am, I cannot consent to having one in my city home. I resent, almost as much as the dog does, his being pulled about on the streets, and chained in yards, when he should be free to enjoy his world as he chooses. I f I had a home in the country I couldn't live there without a dog. Dogs don't get a square deal in a crowded city.

Wonderful are the things that we can learn about birds and animals, if we treat them kindly and let them live out their lives in their native state. Children should early be taught to be kind to all animals and birds. Many of them can become friends.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Five-Year Look Ahead"

Protected, 1952, by the George Matthew Adams Service.

Just Folks

THE VOTING BOOTH
I sing that little house of tin
With doorways labeled "out" and
"in."For who within it once has stepped Knows there is freedom's air kept.So plain, so cheap to build, so bare,
Yet freedom's candles glister
there,
And every canvas-shielded stall
Holds freedom's privilege for all.Wherever men the polls may place
That site with freedom's flag they grace
And all who enter share inside
A right by tyranny denied.

OBSTRUCTIONIST LABEL PUT ON GOP BY ADLAI

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL)

PT. DODGE, Ia. (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson stacked the Democratic farm record Saturday around what he said is a GOP "record of obstruction" and told the nation's farmers:

"You'd better be careful what you do on election day."

The Democratic presidential candidate, picked this town in the heart of the corn belt for his second, major farm speech of the campaign—a speech that laid down no new Democratic promises to the people who till the land.

Instead, Stevenson cracked down on the Republican farm record and his Republican rival, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eke "Hook Bad Advice"

"I don't believe," he said in his prepared text, "America will entrust its future to the masters of a house divided against itself on foreign policy, on domestic policy and perhaps most of all on farm policy."

The Illinois governor pounded at Eisenhower as having admitted being "at sea" on farm problems and then taking bad advice on them.

He said in effect that the GOP has no farm policy of its own—only a copy of the Democratic platform. But it does have, he said, a "me-too" candidate running on a "yes-but" platform, advised by a "has-been" staff.

He Had Bigger Crowds

Fort Dodge was a mid-day speaking stop between major campaign addresses Friday night at Columbus, Ohio, and Saturday at St. Paul, Minn.

Stevenson spent Friday on his first campaign swing into Ohio. He devoted the day to ripping into GOP Sen. Robert A. Taft on Taft's home grounds, jabbing at Eisenhower as embracing Taft and Old Guard isolationists, and telling the people the Democratic party is the one that understands their needs.

The crowds that saw the Illinois governor in Ohio were considerably less in numbers and enthusiasm than those which welcomed Eisenhower to the Buckeye State two weeks ago.

Calls Taft GOP Boss

That was the case both in Cincinnati, Taft's home town, and in Columbus, where Taft and Stevenson were speaking almost simultaneously in halls a quarter of a mile apart.

Taft said election of Stevenson would mean "a continuation of the wavering, unstable, pro-Communist philosophy that has almost brought this country to destruction."

Stevenson said Taft is "the uncrowned boss of the Republican party"—a throw-back to his contention that Eisenhower now has surrendered to the policies of the man he beat out for the GOP nomination.

Family Problems

And where Taft had said Thursday night in Cleveland that the nation might go so far toward socialization under the Democrats that it couldn't turn back, Stevenson told his Columbus audience that year after year social advances sponsored by the Democrats have met with shouts of "socialism."

He was talking, the Illinois governor said, about family problems: "Such things as seeing to it that children are fed and educated, that there are hospital beds for those who are sick, that there is dignity for those who have done a life's work, and that the scars of slums are removed from America."

Hits Familiar Theme

At the same time, he urged expansion of the social security system—something Eisenhower has recommended, too—to cover more workers, increased benefits as living costs go up, more federal aid for education.

Stevenson took the never-had-it-so-good theme of his Columbus address and applied it to conditions on the farm in the Fort Dodge speech.

While Republicans are talking time for a change, Stevenson said, the Democrats already have brought about real changes for the farmer.

BUILD UP AIR FORCE IN KOREA

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Far East Air Force is being beefed up by 50 per cent for its unrelenting air war on Red Korean targets.

This was announced Friday by U. S. Air Secretary Thomas K. Pinletter. He said some reinforcements already are on hand and air attacks could be stepped up considerably "on very short notice."

For security reasons, he declined to say how many planes are being added to the FEAF.

He also said overall jet production in the U. S. has caught up with Russian output.

He was "confident the Air Force can handle any threat that might develop from the Communist Air Force now deployed . . . in Manchuria."

Pinletter, just back from a tour of Korean air bases and front, said he had been informed the Soviets have moved jet light bombers to Siberian bases but that so far as was known none had yet been added to the Chinese Air Force.

By DON WHITEHEAD)

ABOARD THE EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower moved his presidential campaign westward Saturday, leaving in his trail a scathing indictment of an administration he said was "confused by the opiate" of Communist deceit.

Speaking in the 14,000-seat Milwaukee arena Friday night—to a house that was about two-thirds full—the GOP presidential nominee described efforts to minimize the Communist infiltration into government as "criminal folly."

And then he asserted—at least by implication—that President Truman and Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson had tried to dismiss the Communists-in-government problem lightly.

"All Had Enough"

"We have all had enough," Eisenhower said, "of those who have sneered at the warnings of men trying to drive Communists from high places—but who have never had the sense or the stamina to take after the Communists themselves."

With this speech, Eisenhower supported the position of Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin that disloyalty and subversion still are grave threats to the nation's security. Then he headed for Minnesota and North Dakota.

McCarthy spoke to the crowd shortly before Eisenhower began his speech—and touched off a roar of cheering, punctuated by some boos.

Fight Breaks Out

He asserted: "As long as I represent the people of Wisconsin I will call them as I see them—no matter who happens to be president."

He called Eisenhower a man who would "make a great president—an outstanding president." He said with a grin that he had talked with the GOP candidate but "I can't report we agree entirely on everything." The crowd laughed.

He went on to attack the administration which he said "believes in a war prosperity."

McCarthy was interrupted at one point by boos and then a fight broke out between two youths in the rear of the arena.

Objects To Methods

"I don't let a few trouble makers bother me," McCarthy commented. And he went on with his address. Eisenhower made it clear during a day of whistle stopping in McCarthy's home state that he didn't agree with the methods McCarthy has used in his anti-Communist campaign although he was supporting him for re-election.

McCarthy's enemies have accused him of using "sneer" tactics in his campaign which has made him one of the most bitterly controversial figures in American politics.

Call "A Red A Red"

Eisenhower has deplored such tactics and said Communists can be rooted from the government without tainting the names of innocent people.

"We have the right to call a spade a spade," Eisenhower said. "That means, in every proved case, the right to call a Red a Red. The time is past when we can hide our heads in the sands of stubborn ignorance or spend our days in the leisurely indulgence of abstract argument."

Eisenhower had said earlier there were "some among us who argued cunningly" for the idea that democracy and communism both believed in freedom.

He said this idea insinuated itself into schools, public forums, labor unions and government.

"Opiate Of Deceit"

"What did this penetration into government mean?" he said. "It meant contamination in some degree of virtually every department, every agency, every bureau, every section of government. It meant a government by men whose very brains were confused by the opiate of this deceit."

He named these men as the advisers who formed American foreign policy. And he added: "This penetration meant a domestic policy whose tone was set by men who sneered and scoffed at warnings of the enemy infiltrating our most secret councils."

"It meant—in its most ugly triumph—treason itself."

Town To Be Host To Taft, Truman

SHENANDOAH, Iowa (AP)—This Southwest Iowa town of 7,000 persons, featuring both President Truman and Sen. Robert A. Taft in its political doubleheader next Wednesday, will have the two rivals leading the same parade.

However, it is not expected that the two political leaders' paths will cross while visiting here, says Jack Burton, parade chairman.

The President, scheduled to arrive at 10:30 a. m. (CST) and speak two hours later, will take his place at the head of the first section of the parade, Burton said.

The Ohio senator, who now plans to reach here about the same time but doesn't talk until 3 p. m., will head the second section, Burton added.

RIP-SNORTING IKE VS. TRUMAN FEUD LOOMING

By DON WHITEHEAD

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower beamed his political charm on Washington State today amid signs that a rip-snorting Eisenhower-Truman feud will highlight the final month of the presidential campaign.

Eisenhower has scrapped his "no personalities" tactics and aides say he can be expected to rip into President Truman in fusion with the Blessed Sacrament, in which the school children participated. The traditional hymn "Pange Lingua" was sung during the procession, after which the Blessed Sacrament was placed in exposition, to remain on the altar throughout the time of the Forty Hours Devotion, for the faithful to visit, adore and petition.

The Rev. Thomas J. Ryan, of the Society of the Precious Blood, is conducting the Forty Hours, which will continue through to Tuesday evening. The mass for peace was celebrated this morning and services will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The mass of reparation will take place on Tuesday morning, when masses will begin at 5:30 and 7:30 o'clock. Tuesday evening, the solemn closing of the devotion will take place, with visiting priests present to participate in the closing service at 7:30 o'clock. There will again be a procession with the children and the priests participating and the chanting of the Litany of the Saints by the priests will take place. The main altar is decorated with pompons, fern and candelabra and the other altars with cut flowers. Flower girls in the procession Sunday and Tuesday evening include Sally Busbey, Nancy Harner, Joyce Hymiller, Anna Louise Krichen, Mary Ann Rang, Faith Ann Redding, Joan Riley, Suzanne Stuller, Carol Ann Stuller, Suzanne Weaver, Patricia Wright, Sally Cookson, Victoria Gouker, Esther Klunk, Theresa Rang and Virginia Dietrich. They wear white dresses and gold ribbons in their hair, carrying baskets of flowers. The older girls wear white dresses with veils for the procession. Confessions will be heard this evening following the services for the convenience of those who wish to go. Daily mass in St. Aloysius Church the remainder of the week will begin at 8 a. m.

Not Scared By Blanks

It appeared that Eisenhower may aim his heaviest fire at Truman rather than his Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson, thus focusing campaign attention on Truman as an issue.

Yesterday, Eisenhower's special rolled through the autumn-tinted plains and mountains of Montana and he spoke briefly to crowds along the way.

Gettysburg And Wrightsville Railroad Projected In 1836 At Gathering In East Berlin

This is the fifth in a series of eleven articles on railroading in Adams County.

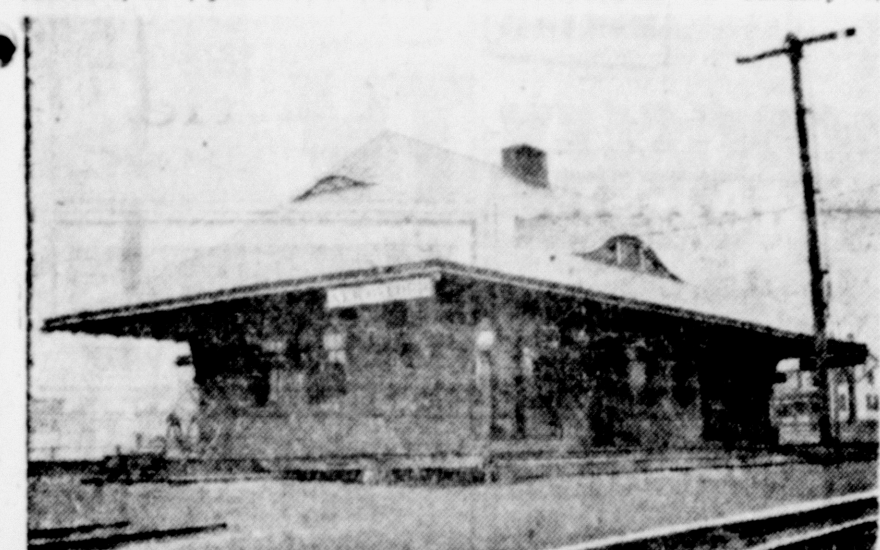

A meeting was held at the schoolhouse in East Berlin on January 1, 1836, to consider the building of a railroad which would connect York and Gettysburg. An act to incorporate the Wrightsville and Gettysburg railroad was passed in 1836, the incorporators, according to the Gettysburg Compiler, being Thomas C. Miller, James A. Thompson, Thaddeus Stevens, James Wilson, William McClellan, Thomas J. Cooper, J. P. Macfarland, John B. McPherson, Samuel Fahnestock, James McSherry, David Middlecoff, George Himes, George Ickes, Joseph Carl, William Hildebrand, Joseph Miller, Abraham Pickens, George L. Fauss, Robert M. Hutcheson, Jacob Delone and William Albright from Adams County. Other incorporators were from York and Lancaster Counties and from Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The books for the subscription of stock to this company were opened on the 23rd, 24th and 25th days of May, at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Gettysburg, Hanover, Abbotstown, East Berlin and Columbia. The two companies, the York and Wrightsville and the Wrightsville and Gettysburg, were united, to extend the road from York westward jointly, according to the Compiler account.

Officers Are Elected
On August 5, 1836 the following officers of the Gettysburg and Wrightsville railroad were elected: President, Thaddeus Stevens; managers, Bernhart Gilbert, James A. Thompson, Samuel Fahnestock, William Wright, John Kauffelt, William B. Reed, James Bell Jr. and Peter Diehl. The managers elected John B. McPherson, treasurer, and Robert W. Middleton, secretary.

The managers of the Wrightsville and Gettysburg railroad appointed S. W. Mifflin principal engineer in September, 1836, and he made arrangements for the immediate location of the road. The line was established from York, through Abbotstown and New Oxford, to Gettysburg.

The work came to an end after spending $800,000. A resolution to stop the Gettysburg railroad on March 1, 1839, passed both houses.

The photograph above is of the old Western Maryland station in New Oxford, still in use. The old Hanover Junction, Hanover and Gettysburg Railroad was built in two sections. On Wednesday, January 6, 1858, the road was completed to New Oxford. It was not until the following December that the first trains ran into Gettysburg.

SELF-INFLICTED WAR WOUNDS IN KOREA UNUSUAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the Korean War, as in all others, there are some soldiers who deliberately wound themselves to get out of battle or out of the Army.

But the Army believes, although it can't prove it one way or the other, that the number in this war is comparatively small.

In response to questions, the provost marshal general's office today made a spot check of records of the Far East Command from the period July 1, 1951, to June 30, 1952. The office said that showed only seven cases which were established definitely as self-inflicted wounding.

However, other Army officers with long experience in such matters point out that it is difficult to detect and prove an actual case of self-inflicted wound.

But if a case can be proved, the going is rough for the soldier who tries it.

He is guilty of violating Article 115 of the Universal Code of Military Justice, dealing with malingering and the avoidance of duty. There is a maximum sentence of seven years hard labor and dishonorable discharge possible—and in time of war the maximum provision may be suspended and even heavier sentence imposed.

There is one feature of the Korean War which may help to explain the apparent low incidence of self-inflicted wound cases.

In World War II there was no rotation system. The rotation system in Korea, under which the average man can figure he will start home after anywhere from 11 to about 14 months, makes a difference in soldier thinking, say the experts. He has a known, definite time when he can expect to get through with his job and he doesn't need to puncture himself with a bullet to get out.

of the legislature." Another story of the Gettysburg railroad is told in the Compiler as follows:

"In February, 1852, the railroad board entered into an arrangement with J. E. Sickels, who had been the engineer of the Hanover Branch Railroad, to solicit subscription of stock necessary for the construction of the Gettysburg Railroad.

Plan New Road
"In January, 1853, another meeting was held, when committees reported on subscriptions, etc. At this time a project was in contemplation among the citizens of York and Adams Counties for the construction of a railroad from York to Gettysburg. Large subscriptions were made and meetings called in Abbotstown, New Oxford, Gettysburg and York. The point at which the road might intersect, whether at Hanover or York, depended mainly upon the inducements that might be presented from those localities. It was determined to have a railroad, whether to Hanover or York was but a secondary consideration, the determination of which should be a matter for future determination.

"Railroad conventions were held at York and elsewhere, and resolutions passed, committees appointed and quite a spirit manifested. S. W. Mifflin, civil engineer, made a statement to the convention as to the feasibility of the project and its probable cost from York to Gettysburg.

"Surveys had been made by Mifflin from York to Gettysburg, Oxford and also East Berlin. Mr. Sickels made a survey from Hanover to Gettysburg in which J. S. Gitt assisted. The spirit of enterprise was kept up for some time, when at a meeting an election was held in the court house in Gettysburg for officers of the railroad on June 27, 1853.

"The election resulted in the choice of the following: President, Robert McCurdy; directors, Abraham Krise, John Musselman, James Wilson, Frederick Diehl, James G. Reed, Thomas Warren, John L. Tate, George W. McClelland, Henry J. Stahle, John Pfoutz, Josiah Benner and David McConoughy.

Survey Is Started
"Another election was held by the stockholders on January 8, 1855, and the following elected: President, Robert McCurdy; directors, James Wilson, John Musselman, Abraham Krise, George Throne, William Douglass, Josiah Benner, Frederick Diehl, Thaddeus Stevens, James G. Reed, John L. Tate, George W. McClelland and David McCreary.

"The survey was begun at Gettysburg on November 8, 1855, by Joseph S. Gitt, who ran about 60 miles of preliminary lines. Soon after these lines were run he commenced location of part of the railroad. On December 27, 1855, the board of directors contracted with Messrs. Irwin and Taylor, according to The Compiler, for construction of the road from Gettysburg to Hanover via New Oxford, in two separate contracts. The first covered the grading and bridging, for which the company paid $105,000, of which $85,000 was in cash and $20 in stock.

"The second contract covered the laying of cross ties, rails, switches and turnouts, and was for $133,000, the contractors agreeing to take one-half of this amount in seven per cent bonds of the company at a discount of 25 per cent. The Compiler account continues:

Conduct Excursion
"On September 10, 1857, an excursion over the Gettysburg Railroad was made from Hanover to the dividing line of York and Adams counties. After passing across the line, the cars were stopped, and speeches were made by Captain Eichelberger, David Willis, Esq., Hon. William McSherry and H. J. Stahle. The cars were filled, and after the speeches the guests passed over the Hanover Branch Railroad to the junction, where they were supplied with abundant refreshments. After remaining there nearly an hour they returned to Hanover.

"On Wednesday, January 6, 1858, the railroad between New Oxford and Hanover was formally opened to travel. . . . A large concourse of people assembled at New Oxford. . . . In March the work of track-laying was re-commenced at New Oxford, and vigorously prosecuted to completion at Gettysburg.

Dinner Is "Grand"
"The celebration to the completion of the Gettysburg Railroad as far as Golden's station came off in June, 1858. . . . The dinner, gotten up by Mr. Michael Miller, grand—the long table in the grove fairly groaning beneath its weight of good things."

The arrival of the "iron horse" at Gettysburg has been previously described, but The Compiler adds this:

"It was emphatically a great day. All quarters of the county were strongly represented, with large numbers of visitors from places beyond the county limits. There was also a special train from Baltimore, and large numbers of visitors from Philadelphia, York, Hanover, etc., including military from York and Hanover. The 'iron horse,' with Mr. Fuller as 'driver' did the hauling. Hundreds of excursionists were carried over the road from Gettysburg to Hanover and back during the day. At least eight thousand people were present on that memorable occasion."

RESUME INCOME TAX FRAUD CASE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U. S. Tax Court hearing on government charges that William G. (Big Bill) Lias owes $2,850,000 in back income taxes, interest and penalties resumes today after a three-month recess.

Counsel for the 400-pound owner of Wheeling Downs race track, Wheeling, W. Va., estimated the hearing would continue two to three weeks.

Thurman Hill, Lias' lawyer, hopes to complete the tax hearing before Lias is called for another hearing in a government move to deport the former bootlegger and gambling king pin.

Called An Alien
That hearing will be on immigration service charges that Lias is an alien and that he illegally reentered the United States in 1935 after a trip to Greece.

Lias, who is free under $2,000 bond on the immigration charge, replied that the government must be thinking of someone else. He said he was born in this country and never left it.

And he feels the same way about the government's tax charges. He replied that he doesn't owe any taxes. He made several offers, however, to settle the case, the latest being for $1,600,000. But the government turned the offers down.

Steel, glass and chemical industries use about 20 per cent of U. S. coal production.

CARRIER BOYS HONORED WITH NEW U. S. STAMP

By PERRY STIRLING

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Nation's great paused Saturday to pay tribute to the kid next door—the boy who delivers your newspaper. The youthful champions of free enterprise got special recognition Saturday when the U. S. postoffice places on sale a three-cent stamp honoring their service to community and country.

In a special ceremony at Benjamin Franklin Institute, Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson will present the first stamp to a newspaperboy. The Franklin Institute was chosen, Donaldson said, because Franklin was "probably the first newspaperboy."

"Busy Boys, Better Boys"
The stamp will be sold exclusively in Philadelphia for a short time and then will be placed on sale throughout the nation. It depicts a newspaperboy carrying papers in an average American community. On the boy's bag is the legend "busy boys-better boys."

The stamp, printed in three shades of purple, was adapted from a sketch made by the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin's editorial cartoonist, F.O. Alexander.

The paper carriers were honored by the Bulletin at a banquet Friday night attended by such prominent former newspaperboys as Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, Harold Stassen, president of Aly Khan, son and religious heir of the wealthy Aga Khan, leader of many millions of moslems, minimized the idea of divorce in talks with reporters last Saturday and Rita said then she did not intend immediately to press through the divorce papers on file in Reno.

When she came to Paris two weeks ago, she went straight to the Neully home of her husband, against whom she has filed divorce proceedings. They were seen together often afterward in restaurants and night clubs and allowed themselves to be photographed together.

Speaking at the banquet Snyder said, "Newspaperboys exemplify the vigor of American free enterprise." The secretary praised the boys' contribution to national defense and pointed out that the carriers sold nearly two million 10-cent war savings stamps during World War II and are currently distributing door-to-door pamphlets urging their customers to continue their purchase of defense bonds.

Many Flowers Grow Well From Seed Sown In Fall

A surprising number of both annual and perennial flowers can be sown in the fall, and when this is done plants for next spring's garden will be produced earlier than by any other method of seed sowing, except in a greenhouse or hot-bed.

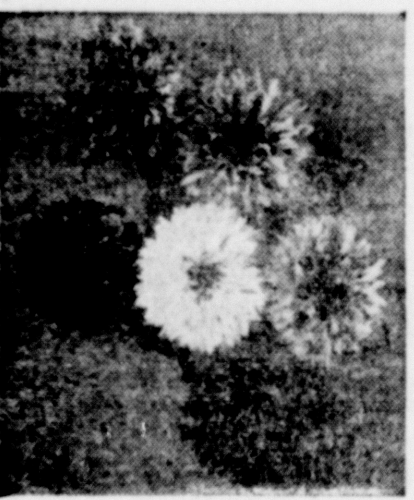

The safest way for an amateur to sow either hardy annuals, or perennials, is in a seed box, or flat. It is the most convenient way, also. You can easily prepare a porous soil, mixing one-third peat moss, one-third sharp sand, and one-third of your best top soil, sifted. Put a half-inch layer of sifted sphagnum moss on top, and sow seeds in this, then cover lightly with sifted sphagnum moss.

In a flat, they will escape many of the winter hazards which seeds in the open garden will encounter. The flat can be placed in a sheltered place near the house during winter, and covered with leaves; or better, you can put it in a coldframe, where it will start into new growth much earlier in the spring.

If a plant is hardy, which means frost-resistant, cold will not kill it. But accidents may destroy it during the winter. It may drown in surface water produced by a winter thaw; or be washed out of the ground by heavy rain; or uprooted by alternate freezing and thawing. These accidents are especially likely to destroy young plants, but if they are growing in a flat they can easily be protected from such mishaps.

Any of the hardy perennials which grow from seed can be sown this fall, at any time before the freeze-up, if assured this protection. They will not produce plants in the spring equal to established plants; but they will have a definite start over seed which is started next spring, and a large proportion of them will produce flowers before the garden season is over.

Fall sown annuals will usually bloom almost as early next year as greenhouse or hot-bed plants, and be much larger and more vigorous, as a result of having passed their whole life outdoors.

No. 1 candidate for fall sowing, is the annual larkspur.

Shirley poppies, calliopsis, candytuft, cosmos, the fragrant nicotiana, and all color of bachelor button are as hardy as oaks.

When bulbs are planted along in beds or borders, hardy annuals may be sown in the same place this fall, to blossom after the bulbs have flowered and their foliage has disappeared. Rows of hardy annuals suitable for cut flowers may be sown in the vegetable plot, after it has been spaded this fall.

In sections where a brief spring cuts short the flowering season of sweet peas, earlier flowers and a longer season can be obtained by fall sowing, taking precautions as suggested against decay in damp soil. By covering the ground with a light mulch of leaves, straw or similar substance, after it has frozen, winter thaws may be prevented, which might otherwise cause injury.

Other annuals which are successfully fall sown include snapdragons, caryophyllus, hardy pinks California poppy, nigella and petunia.

with protection of foliage and flowers from the midday sun when the rays are hot should be stressed.

If mealybugs or white flies attack the plants, kill the pests off early with a spray of Black Leaf 40 in soapy water. If the plant is covered with oilcloth or a snug paper cone immediately after the spraying to hold fumes among the leaves for five to eight hours, the insecticide will prove more lethal.

Interested readers are invited to write the editor, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, for free copies of our geranium growing instructions. All house plant questions will be answered at the same time.

HOME GARDEN WORK FOR FALL

Gardeners who neglect to start actual gardening work in the fall, not to mention careful and thorough planning, seldom attain more than medium success in growing vegetables and small fruits for home consumption and local marketing. Among tasks suggested for starting or completing before cold weather arrives are the following:

Plant onion sets any time after the middle of October to grow extra early green onions. If winter heating is likely, an action common to heavy types of soil, mulch the rows with light straw, hay or similar vegetation after the ground is frozen in early December.

Set out well rooted nursery plants or vigorous volunteers of red raspberries in late October. Of course, early March planting of all bramble fruits in this latitude is usually practiced, including red raspberries. But many growers believe this variety is benefited by late fall planting.

Every gardener and farmer who intends to start other raspberries, blackberries, dewberries or boysenberries next spring should prepare soils before winter. The one exception is where erosion is likely over winter.

Blueberries should have a prominent place in every well rounded garden. Soils for this fruit must be acid. These two facts, coupled with the necessity of early spring planting, add up to the advice to make soils ready this fall. The editor will be glad to furnish interested readers a planting guide. Merely enclose a stamped, addressed envelope with your request.

Likewise soil for starting a bed of asparagus should be made ready in the fall by turning under deeply a liberal application of manure and thoroughly decomposed compost.

Spade under an ample quantity of weathered cattle manure in a sunny fence row where rhubarb roots or divisions may be planted in early March.

Obtain a prodigious supply of dry loam and store it indoors before fall rains and cold weather interfere. This should be the richest loam procurable, preferably from an old, idle fence row. It will be urgently needed in late winter for use in coldframes, hotbeds, plant pots and bands, window boxes, seed flats, and for strewn along rows where the garden soil is otherwise too wet for early planting. Seldom does any gardener ever have enough dry loam stored for early gardening activities.

From a pasture field gather several barrels of dry, thoroughly weathered cattle manure and store it in a dry place over winter. Here is one of the most beneficial forms of livestock manure for almost all roles where pulverized organic matter is needed. Both vegetable gardeners and ornamental plant growers find dry cattle manure almost indispensable from late January until summer.

Build extra coldframes while mild weather continues, also have hotbeds ready for filling in early January.

If leaves, straw, rough hay, shredded corn stalks or other waste vegetation are available, give the entire garden a coating for winter to avoid soil losses from splashing rains. This litter can be profitably turned under next spring or used for summer mulching.

And write the editor for all information needed. No. 1952 problems should be carried unsolved over into 1953.

NEW-AND-OLD IN FRUIT GROWING

Windbreaks not only reduce damages to fruit trees from winter-killing but wind-fallen fruit losses over summer are considerably curtailed. Any of the fast-growing poplars, soft maples, and particularly the tall Lombardy poplars backed by low evergreens make excellent windbreaks to protect orchards.

Peach growers may find it extremely profitable to experiment with a few trees to determine the advisability of fall fertilizer applications. Tests through the Middle West indicate that applications of 0-20-20 fertilizer in early fall, followed by a feeding of nitrate of soda in the spring greatly increase peach yields and at the same time improves fruit quality.

In northern Indiana and Ohio fall-fertilized peach trees suffered fewer injuries from winter bud-killing than unfertilized trees. Apparently a pre-winter nourished tree withstands cold weather better than an under-fed tree.

It has been observed for several years that spring fertilization improves peach coloring. Now advocates of fall fertilization claim even greater improvements in deepening fruit colors.

Experiments in peach tree feeding should include lime applications. From several growers comes the theory that peach trees growing in calcium-deficient soils may suffer directly from manganese poisoning. Liming apparently removes or neutralizes this danger. Lime should be broadcast around the trees at once.

Peach trees grown in permanent sod as well as those under cultivation benefit from late winter or early spring feeding with poultry manure. Three or four shovelfuls per tree are sufficient. Again, this should be tested on an experimental scope.

Mulching fruit trees in the spring with straw, hay or shredded corn stalks conserves soil moisture, eliminates weed competition, and attracts the feeder roots into the richer surface soil. And as reported here a few weeks ago, sawdust mulching is also worth a thorough test. Where sawdust or finely chipped wood is used as a mulch, addition of nitrogen is necessary as the wood decays.

Fall application of fertilizer to stimulate fruit trees may be made any time from late September until trees shed their leaves. The editor has reports on fall fertilization from no other than peach trees. However, the idea is worth testing on all other kinds of tree fruits.

Farmers with sufficient coldframe space may profitably utilize all peach prunings as cuttings. It seems practicable to grow seed-

DEPORTATION IS A DIFFICULT TASK FOR U. S.

By ARTHUR EDSON
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (P)—Most of us take our U. S. citizenship pretty much for granted.

We were born in this country, or possibly born abroad of U. S. parents. Our citizenship was none of our doing. And no matter how ornery or worthless we may be, no one can take our citizenship away.

To be sure, we can take to violent crime and maybe lose our citizenship rights, such as the right to vote.

Or we can decide to become citizens of another country. But that's something we decide to do, not something the government decides to do to us.

Atty. Gen. McGranery had in mind another type of citizen—the naturalized citizen—when he said last week he wanted to rid this country of about 100 foreign-born racketeers.

"Ungrateful Recipients" "Ungrateful recipients of American hospitality," McGranery called them.

He hopes to have their naturalization papers revoked and then deport them. And, he said, he has similar plans for some Communists.

McGranery didn't discuss details, but any attempt to carry out such a program would be a long, tedious legal operation.

In the first place, a naturalized citizen who got his papers legally and honestly can't be deported. This country can't kick him out even though he later becomes criminal No. 1 on the FBI list.

To denaturalize a foreign-born citizen the government must prove in court that he obtained his papers illegally or through fraud.

It is here, obviously, that McGranery expects the Justice Department to make its case. Many lings and them use rooted cuttings or direct prunings as scions for grafting on these seedling stacks.

Improved varieties may be multiplied inexpensively. Another experiment worth trying is fall thinning of strawberry plants. With a weeding hoe remove crowding plants in a test section of row, allowing 5 to 6 inches between remaining plants. Then next spring check on size of berries and total yields against unthinned rows.

In late March strawberry growers should test dry vegetable mulches against sawdust. If sawdust is used, the late August feeding of nitrogen should be increased slightly above the normal rate. Sorghum cane bagasse makes an excellent vegetable mulch for strawberries over summer. It adds a liberal supply of organic matter to turn under when the plantation is renewed.

NOTES ON INDOOR GERANIUMS

Among the numerous causes of failure of indoor geraniums to bloom, six are worth careful study at this time of the year. They are here listed in the probable order of their seriousness and frequency of occurrence:

1. Allowing plants to grow tall and spindly.
2. High temperatures, usually accompanied by dry air.
3. Too large pots which promote excessive foliage at the expense of flowers.
4. Fumes from gas stoves.
5. Too much or too frequent watering.
6. Lack of sunlight.

Of course, growers will immediately observe that diseases and insects are not included among the common cause of geranium failure. This omission is not an oversight. Seldom do insects bother this plant, also, diseases are extremely rare.

The all too-common habit of allowing both old and young geranium plants to grow tall and spindly and to lose their lower leaves and stand gaunt and unsightly is by far the most generally prevalent cause of bloom failures. Such scrawny specimens rarely bear flowers. The remedy lies in pinching off the ends of the longer laterals as growth develops, thereby resulting in the formation of low, bushy, round, many-branched tops which are attractive for foliage alone and doubly so when crowned with numerous flowers. This shaping operation should begin early with young plants. Of course, old plants are partially shaped when they are cut back after the flowering season ends in late winter.

Few geraniums succeed in temperatures above 72 or 73 degrees F. and few fail where temperatures range around 70 degrees or slightly lower. Apparently the major evils of high temperatures are found in dry air and not in the fact of higher temperatures alone. Inherently geraniums should thrive in temperatures even in the upper 70s if the air could be kept adequately moist.

Geranium plants should be at least slightly pot-bound by the time they reach blooming size and age. To afford them extra rooting space at this stage of growth leads to continued foliage development with few or no blooms. Usually a fully grown specimen should occupy nothing larger than a 5-inch pot.

Correspondence with growers over many years indicates that geraniums are injured by fumes from gas stoves, especially where gas is used for cooking and flue connections are not possible to capure all the released fumes.

The injurious habit of watering house plants every morning by a sprinkling finds no justification. It often results in geranium failures. The folly of this practice may be more acutely realized when it is compared to rain. How wholly inadequate would be a climate where the only rainfall was a very light shower every morning?

East, south, and west windows are recommended for geraniums in order named. Plenty of sunshine

There's the soft, steady, solid, swerve-free going of a coil-spring-cushioned ride that's well worth the million-plus dollars it cost to engineer.

There's all this and more—much more—that

SLEDGEHAMMER APPROACH BEING USED BY ADLAI

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's campaign for the presidency reached a cross roads today—with a shift in emphasis and issues.

From a series of speeches built largely around selling the idea that another Democratic election victory will mean continued prosperity, the Democratic nominee turned to drafting a major address on the menace of communism.

The prosperity theme ran through speeches Friday and Saturday in Ohio, Iowa and Minnesota. The communism issue, on the basis of present plans, is to be the topic of a major address in Detroit tomorrow night—the first major address of a five-day aerial sortie into seven states in the Midwest and Deep South.

Changes To Sledgehammer
From using a deft, sharp needle to jab at the GOP and at Republican candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower, Stevenson apparently has switched to a sledgehammer approach.

As he swung through Ohio, Iowa and Minnesota at the close of last week, Stevenson bore down on the premise that the American people have been pretty happy and prosperous for the better part of 20 years under Democratic administration. That, obviously, was intended to counter the Republican time-for-a-change chant, and Eisenhower's statements that dollars aren't worth as much as they used to be.

All day long Saturday, at Ft. Dodge, Ia., then at Minneapolis and finally at St. Paul, Stevenson took harder and harder swats at Eisenhower and the GOP. He built up to a climax in St. Paul, where he named names and even called a few.

Say's Taft Is Ike's Mentor
He called Eisenhower a captive to the GOP "Old Guard," a man who "seems to have embraced or been embraced by the most reckless and embittered wing of his party."

He said Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin is a "champion of the inquisition, champion of trial by ordeal and slander."

He said Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio is the political mentor of the general and a man who has "made opposition a matter of principle."

While his audience cut loose with lusty boos, Stevenson said McCarthy, Taft, and other GOP senators would be part of a "murderers' row" in the Senate, in charge of key committees, if the Republicans elect to office all the candidates Eisenhower endorsed.

"They are a party of confusion, hesitation, weakness, and that is the signpost that points to disaster an war."

From Minneapolis and St. Paul Stevenson flew back to his home base here to rest up and write more speeches. After starting out in Michigan tomorrow, Stevenson moves into McCarthy's Wisconsin, Missouri, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Florida and Tennessee.

Road Question Is Before High Court

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The State Superior Court was asked Saturday to decide whether a road once part of a state road system without the consent of borough council.

The court reserved decision on an appeal to sustain a board of view ruling that a road within the borough limits of Shenandoah could be abandoned.

The board of view ruling was sought by Turkey Run Pools Inc., whose property bounds both sides of the road in question.

The Shenandoah Borough Council appealed the ruling in Schuylkill County Quarter Sessions Court and that court sustained the exceptions made by the borough. The road in question was part of an old state turnpike road leading from Pottsville to Berwick.

Kennan Declines Comments On Reds

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—U.S. Ambassador George F. Kennan arrived here from Switzerland today but refused any comment on the Soviet government's demand that he be recalled from his post in Moscow.

Met at the railroad station by a score of newsmen and photographers, Kennan said tersely:

"I will make no statement on the action of the Soviet government."

When a reporter asked him for comment on the current congress of the Soviet Communist Party in Moscow, Kennan replied grimly:

"I will make no statement on Soviet matters."

The Russian government demanded Kennan's recall late last week, charging that he had made "slandering attacks" on the Soviet Union by comparing living conditions of Americans in Moscow with those imposed on diplomats after the outbreak of World War II.

row" in the Senate, in charge of key committees, if the Republicans elect to office all the candidates Eisenhower endorsed.

"They are a party of confusion, hesitation, weakness, and that is the signpost that points to disaster an war."

From Minneapolis and St. Paul Stevenson flew back to his home base here to rest up and write more speeches. After starting out in Michigan tomorrow, Stevenson moves into McCarthy's Wisconsin, Missouri, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Florida and Tennessee.

2 MORE TRIPS PLANNED FOR PRES. TRUMAN

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP)—President Truman's campaign strategy board worked on two new speaking itineraries for the "give 'em hell" campaigner today as he pressed his anti-Eisenhower drive across Utah and Colorado.

Tentative plans call for a whirlwind tour of New England—highlighted by a major address in Boston—and still another Midwestern tour carrying Truman into Pennsylvania, Ohio and other states on his way home to Missouri to vote.

Announcement of the itineraries was withheld until all the stops can be filled in.

Ends Current Trip In N. Y.

The Truman strategists aboard this train are headed by Matthew J. Connelly, secretary to the President. The speech writing crew is led by Charles S. Murphy, special counsel to Truman.

Truman's current 8,500 mile, 15-day coast-to-coast trip winds up in New York Saturday with two speeches. Before that he will stump upstate New York from Buffalo, where he speaks Friday night.

The second trip into New England, with speeches likely in Hartford and New Haven, as well as Boston, will follow within less than a week Truman's return to Washington Sunday. The Midwestern trip likely will wind up the campaign.

The President planned his biggest speech today in the field house at Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah.

Call For Margaret
The President laid off campaign speeches yesterday under his no-speaking on Sunday rule.

But he waved at friendly California crowds.

Invariably they asked "where's Margaret?" and the President called his daughter to the platform to wave and smile.

Truman cut loose at Eisenhower and Sen. Richard M. Nixon, his vice presidential running mate, in talks Saturday in the San Francisco area.

RED CONGRESS IS OPENED BY LONG
ATTACK ON U. S.

By EDDY GILMORE
MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi M. Malenkov opened the 19th All-Soviet Communist Party Congress last night with an hour-long denunciation of the United States and its "bosses," who he said were bent on world domination and war with the Soviet Union.

Keynoting the first such party congress in 13 years, the leading member of the Soviet Union's ruling Politburo charged the United States is driving the capitalist world toward economic breakdown and war, while the Soviet Union seeks only peace and is growing ever stronger and more prosperous.

Joseph Stalin and an audience of 2,000 delegates in the Kremlin's great hall heard Malenkov as he charged the "bosses" of the United States had decided to "wreck the peace and prepare a new war," a war on the Soviet Union, the "chief opponent of a new war and the chief pillar of peace."

Stalin's Successor
The keynote address, delivered in the past by Stalin himself, presumably laid the basis for policies to be approved by the Congress. (Malenkov is generally regarded as Stalin's most likely successor.)

Also on the agenda of the Congress sessions, expected to last a week, are approval of the new five-year plan launched 18 months ago for vast increases in industrial and agricultural production, and major changes in the party's organization, including replacement of the Politburo and Organization Bureau (Orgburo) by a Presidium.

Molotov Leans On
Malenkov's bitter charges against the United States were preceded by similar accusations from another Politburo member, former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who denounced U. S. "ruling circles" for creating "aggressive war alliances like the North Atlantic bloc directed against peace-loving states of the Soviet Union, the Chinese Peoples Republic and countries of the peoples democracies."

Malenkov charged the United States with creating bases throughout the world and "remilitarizing West Germany and Japan" for "criminal purposes."

Malenkov said the Communist party's chief task in the field of foreign policy is to counter all this by "struggling against the preparation and unleashing of a new war," to intensify the "peace partisan" movement throughout the world, and "to insistently expose all preparations for a new war and all intrigues of the warmongers."

Here's a delicious luncheon menu to serve when guests are expected: Creamed turkey on toast triangles with spiced peaches; tossed green salad; gingersnap apple Betty; tea or coffee.
